

5-11 November 2016

TV & Satellite week

NEW

PLANET EARTH

David Attenborough's spectacular wildlife series returns

4-PAGE SPECIAL

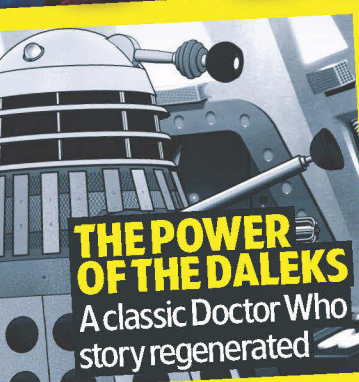

Sci-Fi PREVIEW

Doctor Who heads a line-up of great new shows

DRAMA

OUR LOVED BOY

The Damilola Taylor tragedy

THE POWER OF THE DALEKS

A classic Doctor Who story regenerated

TIMELESS

Chasing Goran Visnjic's terrorist through time

FORTITUDE

Can Sofie Gråbøl's governor keep the peace?

TROLLHUNTERS

A battle between good and evil

Sci-Fi Preview

The best superhero, fantasy and time-travel shows coming your way

Regenerating the Doctor

A long-lost classic Doctor Who adventure is brought back to life in a new animation

NEW SCI-FI

Doctor Who: The Power of the Daleks

Saturday, BBC Store, 5.50pm

It's a history-altering story that would do the Doctor proud. Forty years after it was lost forever, a classic Doctor Who adventure is being brought back to life thanks to a new BBC animation.

The six-part story, The Power of the Daleks, is one of the legendary serials of the early Who years. Originally broadcast between 5 November and 10 December 1966, it was the first full story to feature Patrick Troughton as the Second Doctor.

When the last existing copies of the story were destroyed in an archive purge in the 1970s, the episodes were lost to history. However, a team from the BBC have recreated the six episodes as a new animated serial, to be released 50 years to the day after it first aired.

Executive producer Paul Hembury says the idea followed on from A Stripe for Frazer, the missing Dad's Army episode that was revived as an animation in February using the original audio recording.

'I worked on that lost episode, and it was through doing that show that we thought about Doctor Who,' he explains.

An animated Doctor has a fateful encounter with the Daleks

Patrick Troughton debuts as the Second Doctor

FAITHFUL RECREATION

'We were confident we could take a similar approach with The Power of the Daleks, not least because we had access to a tape recording of the original soundtrack. Someone had stuck a microphone in front of the telly when it was broadcast in 1966 and kept it, and it was high quality.'

Working with scripts and stills from the drama, plus interviews with surviving members of the crew, Hembury's team were able to piece together a nearly exact copy.

'If you compare our animated version to the screen grabs that still exist, it's incredibly faithful,' he says. 'It's probably as close as we're ever going to get to seeing the original.'

The return of The Power of the Daleks is a genuine boon for Who fans, he adds. 'There are 97 lost episodes of the classic Doctor Who series and these ones are particularly sought-after. They were only ever transmitted once and are a much-missed story from the archives.'

The adventure is set on a remote human colony on the planet Vulcan, where the Doctor and companions Polly (Anneke Wills) and Ben (Michael Craze) encounter three Daleks who appear to be acting as servants to the colonists.

'It's quite a sinister piece because the Daleks have set about convincing people they are friendly and subservient,' says Hembury. 'Needless to say, Daleks being Daleks, it's all a dreadful plot...'

● The Power of the Daleks is available to buy and download from the BBC Store from Saturday at 5.50pm until 14 November.

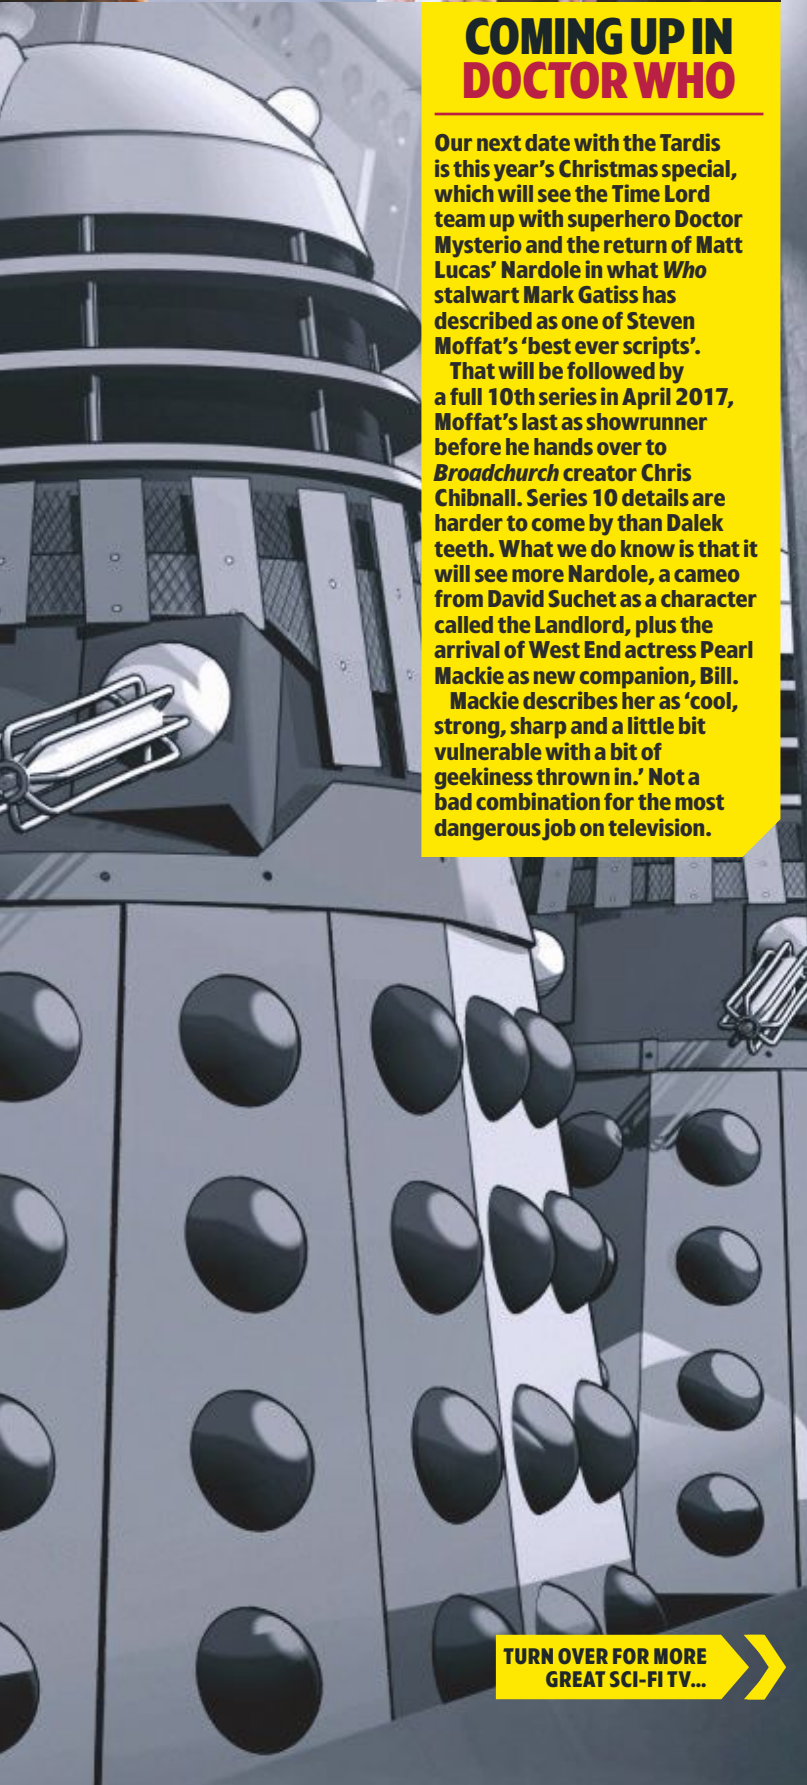

Pearl Mackie
joins as new companion Bill

COMING UP IN DOCTOR WHO

Our next date with the Tardis is this year's Christmas special, which will see the Time Lord team up with superhero Doctor Mysterio and the return of Matt Lucas' Nardole in what Who stalwart Mark Gatiss has described as one of Steven Moffat's 'best ever scripts'.

That will be followed by a full 10th series in April 2017, Moffat's last as showrunner before he hands over to Broadchurch creator Chris Chibnall. Series 10 details are harder to come by than Dalek teeth. What we do know is that it will see more Nardole, a cameo from David Suchet as a character called the Landlord, plus the arrival of West End actress Pearl Mackie as new companion, Bill.

Mackie describes her as 'cool, strong, sharp and a little bit vulnerable with a bit of geekiness thrown in.' Not a bad combination for the most dangerous job on television.

TURN OVER FOR MORE
GREAT SCI-FI TV...

Finn Jones as
Danny Rand

Iron Fist

NETFLIX MARCH 2017

Hot on the heels of Marvel's

Daredevil, Jessica Jones, and Luke Cage, the fourth show in the interlinked line-up features British actor Finn Jones as Danny Rand, a billionaire who returns home to New York City after disappearing years earlier. Armed with a newfound expertise in mystical martial arts and Buddhist philosophy, Danny finds himself fighting the criminals looking to take over the city while also trying to reconnect with the life he left behind.

'He's from a very wealthy family, but on the other hand he's been in this world of K'un-Lun for a long time where he's learned kung fu and Buddhism', says Jones, who played Loras Tyrell in Game of Thrones. 'There's a contradiction in those elements that's going to be really fun to play.'

Reilly Dolman, Nesta Cooper and Jared Abrahamson as Philip, Carly and Trevor

Travelers

NETFLIX 2017

This sci-fi from Stargate SG-1

creator Brad Wright is set hundreds of years in the future, where the last surviving humans discover how to send consciousness back through time, directly into people in the 21st Century. These 'travellers' take on the lives of seemingly random people, while secretly trying to save humanity from its terrible future.

Eric McCormack plays FBI Special Agent Grant MacLaren who leads the mismatched team which includes 'intellectually disabled' Marcy (MacKenzie Porter), her carer David (Patrick Gilmore), high school quarterback Trevor (Jared Abrahamson), single mother Carly (Nesta Cooper), and young heroin addict Philip (Reilly Dolman).

Dan Stevens as
David Haller

Legion

FOX FEBRUARY 2017

Dan Stevens is a long way from Downton Abbey in this new Marvel drama. Inspired by the mutant telepathic character from the X-Men comics, the series focuses on the troubled David Haller (Stevens), who has struggled with mental illness for most of his life. Learning that his visions might be real, David then encounters therapist Melanie Bird (Jean Smart), who opens his eyes to his extraordinary potential.

Sci-Fi Preview

Malcolm Barrett, Matt Lanter, Abigail Spencer and Goran Visnjic

Timeless

E4 DECEMBER

This action drama follows a group of crimefighters chasing terrorist Garcia Flynn (Goran Visnjic) through the past after he steals a time machine from the mysterious Mason Industries.

With Flynn disappearing into history, the US government puts together a team of experts to stop him – history professor Lucy Preston (Abigail Spencer), soldier Wyatt Logan (Matt Lanter), and Rufus Carlin (Malcolm Barrett), a technician at Mason Industries who pilots another time machine in hot pursuit.

As the team attempts to stop Flynn, they travel to some key moments in history, including the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, Watergate and World War Two.

Teenager Jim has a new destiny as a troll hunter

Rupert Evans and Brennan Brown as Frank and Robert

Gotham

CHANNEL 5 2017

The Batman origin series introduces a new villain for its third run – Australian actor Benedict Samuel as Jervis Tetch, aka Mad Hatter, a hypnotist teetering on the edge of madness.

The action picks up six months after the season two finale, with Jim Gordon now working as a bounty hunter tracking down the Arkham Asylum escapees, while Bruce faces danger when he tries to take on the cabal pulling the strings at Wayne Enterprises.

Ricky Whittle and Pablo Schreiber as Shadow Moon and Mad Sweeney

The Man in the High Castle

AMAZON PRIME VIDEO DECEMBER

In its first season, this Emmy-award winning drama was Amazon's most-watched original drama. The alternative history action is set in a United States that lost World War Two and is now divided by German and Japanese rule with a neutral zone in the Rockies.

As the series returns, Juliana (Alexa Davalos) deals with the decimation of the resistance, her boyfriend Frank (Rupert Evans) becomes more radicalised, and antique store owner Robert (Brennan Brown) finds his new status coming under threat.

Ben McKenzie's Jim Gordon turns bounty hunter

Trollhunters

NETFLIX DECEMBER

Pan's Labyrinth director Guillermo del Toro turns his hand to a family-friendly animation with this tale of teenager Jim, voiced by the late Anton Yelchin, and his two best friends who discover that beneath their home town lies a raging battle between good and evil trolls.

The voice cast also includes Frasier's Kelsey Grammer as the kind-hearted troll who befriends Jim, and Sons of Anarchy's Ron Perlman as the sinister troll who targets Jim and his friends.

American Gods

AMAZON PRIME VIDEO

EARLY 2017

Former Strictly runner-up Ricky Whittle takes the lead role in this fantasy drama from Hannibal creator Bryan Fuller, based on Neil Gaiman's novel of the same name.

The former Hollyoaks star plays ex-con Shadow Moon, who accepts a job from a mysterious man called Wednesday (Ian McShane), who turns out to be the god Odin from Norse mythology.

He is making his way across America, gathering all the old gods, including Bilquis (Yetide Badaki), for a battle against an upstart pantheon of gods who reflect society's love of money, technology, media, celebrity and drugs. Gillian Anderson also stars.

Yetide Badaki
as Bilquis

Fortitude

Sofie Gråbøl and Richard Dormer as Odegard and Andersen

SKY ATLANTIC JANUARY 2017

The murder mystery returns for a second supernatural series with a stellar line-up of new stars including Dennis Quaid as troubled fisherman Michael Lennox and Michelle Fairley as his wife Freya.

A fresh murder and more mayhem rocks the isolated community as the drama picks up several weeks on from the first series finale. Can Governor Odegard (Sofie Gråbøl) keep the peace? Watch out for those polar bears!

Dennis Quaid
as Michael